

Seeking alcohol help

The alcohol-drinking community feeds itself through its agreement. There's even a term, drinking buddies. Guys who agree that it's Ok to get blasted. There's a dozen humorous terms (or more) to describe the condition of being drunk. Drinking guys will cover for each other if one of them gets in trouble while drunk. My former brother in law called my former husband to get him to cover for him for a hit and run that happened while he was drunk. I objected, feeling he ought to bear the repercussions of what he had done and maybe he'd quit drinking. He finally did after losing his wife and child and the respect of many others around him.
